PERMANENT MISSION OF THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF NIGERIA TO THE UNITED NATIONS

WELCOME MESSAGE OF THE PERMANENT REPRESENTATIVE OF THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF NIGERIA TO THE UNITED NATIONS

On behalf of the Permanent Mission of Nigeria to the United Nations, it is with great pleasure that I personally welcome each of you to the 67th Session of the United Nations General Assembly. It is an exciting time for the Nigerian Mission as we continue to grow, remain adapted, motivated and responsive to the expectations of the United Nations System and the International Community as a whole. Our organization is confronting a time of constant changes and we are meeting these challenges amidst larger global change. The world of multilateral diplomacy is an area of work which will continue to bring people together to ensure that the attainment of our national goals and objectives remain progressive at all times.

The General Assembly is the main deliberative, policymaking and representative organ of the United Nations. Comprising all 193 Members of the United Nations, it provides a unique forum for multilateral discussion of the full spectrum of international issues covered by the UN Charter. The Assembly meets in regular sessions intensively from September to December each year, and thereafter as required. The 67th session will convene at the United Nations Headquarters on Tuesday, 18 September 2012, at 3 p.m., and the general debate will open on Tuesday, 25 September, 2012. The High-Level Meeting on the rule of law at the national and international levels will be held on Monday, 24 September, 2012.

As in previous years, our Committee Experts together with the Nigerian delegation will continue to advance the country's interests in a number of issues which include; nuclear disarmament, small arms and light weapons, terrorism, conflict resolution, human rights, migration, refugees, disability, sustainable development, health, climate change, the environment, gender issues and many other important matters.

We will continue to join other delegations to review progress made in the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, discuss current challenges and possible steps to chart a way forward.

We are transforming the way we operate in order to continuously improve our ability to project Nigeria's national interest and accomplish our foreign policy objectives. Our experts and employees have continued to meet the challenges of our field and to excel. We should all be very proud of where we are today and be optimistic about where we are headed.

Let me conclude by thanking each of you for attending the 67th Session of the United Nations General Assembly and for bringing your expertise and wealth of knowledge to our meetings. You, as delegates, have the vision, the knowledge, the wherewithal and the experience to help us pave our path into the future. You are truly our greatest asset today and tomorrow, and we could not accomplish what we do without your support, commitment and leadership. Throughout this session, I ask you to stay engaged, be proactive and help us shape the future of our country. My personal respect and appreciation goes out to all of you.

Sincerely,

The Permanent Mission of Nigeria to the United Nations

Nigeria has been an active and supportive member of the United Nations since it became the 99th Member-State of the U.N on 7 October, 1960. Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, Late Prime Minister of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, of blessed memory, in his inaugural speech delivered at the plenary session of the General Assembly in New York on October 8, 1960, asserted that “Nigeria would participate actively in the work of the United Nations organization and uphold the principles upon which the United Nations organization was founded.” The Prime Minister also stated the following Principles upon which Nigeria’s International Policies would be based:

- i. Nigeria desires to maintain friendly relations with all Nations and to participate actively in the work of the United Nations;
- ii. Nigeria has no territorial or expansionist intentions;
- iii. Nigeria shall uphold the Principles upon which the United Nations was founded; and
- iv. Nigeria shall work with other African States for the progress of Africa and assist in bringing all African territories to a state of responsible independence.

This was the vision with which Nigeria entered the United Nations and has ever since been part of the guiding principles which form the basis of our nations’ International Relations. Nigeria has continued to successfully utilize the platform of this world body to effectively pursue its dreams of decolonization of Africa and particularly the eradication of apartheid and racism from the continent. Nigeria has also recorded some successes in areas such as Peacekeeping Operations as well as in advancing socio-economic and humanitarian issues within the United Nations. Arising from this commitment, Nigeria has successfully represented West Africa on four occasions in the Security Council (1966-1967, 1978-1979, 1994-1995, 2010-2011). Nigeria is aspiring to make a gracious comeback to the Security Council in the year 2014.

The Permanent Mission has ensured that Nigeria remains visible in the activities of the United Nations, particularly its Committees. At the helm of affairs of the Mission is H. E. Prof. U. Joy Ogwu, OFR. She is assisted by the Deputy Permanent Representative, H. E. Ambassador Usman Sarki.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE UNITED NATIONS

I. LOCATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS:

The United Nations is located at the intersection of 1st Avenue and 44th Street, New York, NY. Its postal address is 2 United Nations Plaza, New York, NY. 10017.

II. PRINCIPAL ORGANS OF THE UNITED NATIONS:

The United Nations is made up of five principal organs.

a. The General Assembly: This is the main deliberative body of the United Nations and is made up of all Member-States of the United Nations (194 Member States). At the beginning of every Session, every Member-State of the UN has the opportunity to address the Assembly. A two-thirds majority vote of Member-States present is required when the General Assembly votes. Also, each country has one vote on all important questions being deliberated upon.

b. The Security Council: The Security has the responsibility of maintaining Peace and Security among all countries. Decisions of the Security Council are called Resolutions. The Security Council is also vested with the power to make such Resolutions which are binding on all Member-States. The Security Council is composed of 15 Member States, five of which are Permanent Members (China, France, Russia, United Kingdom and the United States). Nigeria ended her two year term in the Security Council as a Non-Permanent Member in December 2011.

c. The Secretariat: This organ of the UN is headed by the Secretary-General of the UN. In this office, he also acts as the spokesperson for the UN. The Office of the Secretary-General is a dual position in which the Secretary-General works as the Chief Administrator of the United Nations and a diplomat and mediator in addressing issues and disputes between Member-States in a bid to attain global consensus.

d. The International Court of Justice: This is the primary judicial arm of the United Nations. The purpose of the Court is to adjudicate disputes among Member-States of the UN. Since the establishment of the Court, it has heard cases related to war crimes, ethnic cleansing, and other related issues.

e. Economic and Social Council: This Council assists the General Assembly in the promotion of international economic and social cooperation and development. The ECOSOC has 54 members which are elected by the General Assembly for three year terms. Nigeria is currently a member of the Council. Other functions of ECOSOC include information gathering, advising Member-States and making of recommendations.

III. GENERAL ASSEMBLY COMMITTEES

The Mission's activities in the six Committees cover the following issues:

a. The First Committee (Disarmament and International Security Matters):

The First Committee of the United Nations deals with global challenges of disarmament and threats posed to the international community and seeks ways to resolve the problems relating to international security regime. It also addresses issues on Weapons of Mass destruction, Small arms and light weapons and the threat of Nuclear weapons. Nigeria has also been a credible voice in importance of the Nuclear Non Proliferation Treaty (NPT) by being one of the first Members to sign the Treaty on 1st July, 1968. Nigeria has also been a strong supporter of the Nuclear-Weapon-Free Zone (Pelindaba treaty) that entered into force in July 2009.

b. The Second Committee (Economic and Financial Matters):

The Economic and Financial Committee also referred to as the Second Committee deals with issues relating to economic growth and development such as macroeconomic policy questions (including international trade, international financial system, debt and commodities), financing for development, sustainable development, human settlements, poverty eradication, globalization and interdependence, operational activities for development, and information and communication technologies for development.

c. Third Committee (Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Matters):

The Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Affairs Committee also referred to as the “Third Committee” deals with a range of social, humanitarian affairs and human rights issues around the world. The Committee also discusses the advancement of women, the protection of children, indigenous issues, the treatment of refugees, the promotion of fundamental freedoms through the elimination of racism and racial discrimination, and the promotion of the right to self-determination.

d. Fourth Committee (Special Political and Decolonization Matters):

The Fourth Committee deals with a variety of subjects which include those related to decolonization, Palestinian refugees and human rights, peacekeeping, mine action, outer space, public information, atomic radiation and University for Peace.

e. Fifth Committee (Administrative and Budgetary Matters):

The Fifth Committee is charged with governing the UN budget, and approves or rejects spending for the Secretariat, peacekeeping operations, and the daily functioning of the organization in general. Based on the principle of regional rotation, a chairperson is elected every year by the committee members. The Fifth Committee meets three times a year for a total of almost 8 months, making it the most frequently convened committee in the General Assembly.

f. Sixth Committee (Legal Matters):

The Sixth Committee is the primary forum for the consideration of legal questions and international legal matters in the General Assembly. All UN Member-States are entitled to representation on the Sixth Committee as one of the main committees of the General Assembly.
